TWELVE INDICTED FOR CONSPIRACY

Illegal Use of International Revenue
Stamps on Barrels of Whiskey is Charged.

Fort Smith, Ark., June 24.—J. B. Brown, Harrison, Ark., and Newton C. Spalding, Aurora, Mo., were the only two to be arraigned of the twelve men indicted here today by a grand jury in connection with the alleged defrauding of the government by the illicit manufacture of whiskey. Both entered pleas of not guilty and their attorneys immediately filed demurrers to the indictments.

Brown and Spalding are charged with "conspiracy to defraud the government by selling moonshine whiskey." They were formerly government gaugers in the Kansas City distillery of J. C. Brubaker, against whom an indictment was also returned.

Five indictments were returned today, one of which was suppressed, pending the arrest of the indicted men. Two names in one of the indictments made public were also suppressed.

An indictment against John L. Casper and Guy L. Hartman, both of Kansas City, charges bribery. It is charged they paid Knox Booth, Nashville, Tenn., former internal revenue agent of Tennessee, $1,500 on fifty thousand gallons of whiskey last December and January. Booth is charged with accepting the bribe in a separate indictment.

October 18 was set as a tentative date for the trial of the men now in custody.

Missouri State Poultry Association.

The poultry industry in Missouri is growing faster than any other branch of farm work at present, for people are beginning to realize that the revenue from poultry and eggs during the two years of dry weather has been a great help in paying the grocery and clothing bills, and in a majority of cases has also helped to increase the bank deposit.

The Missouri State Poultry Association has been able during its twenty-three years of active life to encourage the raising of better poultry and more of it by its annual State Poultry Show and by its influence in getting state appropriations for the experimental and educational work which is being done by the Missouri State Poultry Experiment Station.

The membership has increased during the past few years from hundreds to thousands and now hovers around the five thousand mark. By a little solicitation on the part of its members the membership can be doubled before our next show which will be held at Joplin, December 7th to 11th.

The annual membership dues are only fifty cents and the year continues from time of payment, in place of having a financial year terminating on any certain date. The life membership fee is $5.

The members receive all of the bulletins issued by the Missouri State Poultry Experiment Station during the life of their membership, without having to write to Mountain Grove for each bulletin when it is ready for distribution. Non-members often miss receiving bulletins of great value, through not knowing that such are available, and the information contained in any one of them is worth the price of a year's membership.

The Association also issues a year book containing the name, address, and variety of poultry raised by every member, which as an advertising medium is worth several dollars.

Mr. Fred Crosby, Mountain Grove, Missouri, is Secretary-Treasurer and will give prompt attention to memberships sent to him and to correspondence about any matter of personal interest regarding poultry problems.

$83,000,000 Expected Now, From Income Tax.

First estimates of returns from the personal and corporate income tax have been revised upward by Treasury Department officials, who now anticipate nearly $83,000,000 during the present calendar year from this source.

Estimates made in May promised a return of $80,055,000. It is said now, however, that it was quite probable that when the books were finally closed it would be found that the actual receipts were nearer $83,000,000, which would put the returns $3,000,000 above the amount figured upon nearly nine months ago, when the Treasury's annual estimate of income for the year were made.

Under the law, payments of the income tax may be made as late as July 10, but from the way in which the tax is pouring in, officials are confident that nearly all will be in the vaults before the close of the present fiscal year on June 30.

It is now apparent, officials say, that there will be sufficient money from this source to wipe out a large part of the deficit which appeared early in the year, and which steadily increased until a short time ago.

Westinghouse Co. Receives $100,000,000 War Contract.

Pittsburg, Pa., June 24.—The Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company of East Pittsburg has received the largest order for war munitions taken by any one firm in the United States since the opening of the European conflict.

While secrecy is maintained by those in the best position to know the full details, it was learned today that the munition contract for approximately $100,000,000. Shrapnel bullets, large and small calibre, high-velocity projectiles, bomb casings and many varied classes of munitions are included.

Widow "Squatter" Wins Title to Rich Gary Land.

Gary, Ind., June 23.—Mrs. Drusilla Carr, a widow, 60 years old, was declared today to be the legal owner of 157 acres of land said to be valued at several hundred thousand dollars as a result of a decision by the Appellate Court of Indiana.

Mrs. Carr, 40 years ago, "squatted" on the land, which borders on Lake Michigan just east of here. When Gary sprang into existence through the establishing of steel mills scores of claimants contested the right of Mrs. Carr to the property. The case has been in the courts more than five years.

HOW!

The word that confronts every good housewife that wishes to buy the BEST of everything that money can buy at the smallest expense. When she wants a pair of shoes does she have the merchant send a man out to her house to take her order for shoes? Verrily no. When she wants a new hat at the right price does she have the milliner come to her house and take her order? Certainly not. The wise person knows that she will have to pay extra to have the shoe man or the milliner call for her order. When she wishes to buy the best groceries at the least expense does she have the groceryman send a man to take her order? Nay, Nay. She just simply phones 77 where she knows she can get 1 pound of the best coffee ever sold for 30 cents and a handsome dish with each package.

Deep Plowing, Less Washing.

During the numerous rains which have recently fallen over a portion of the grain belt, many fields have washed or eroded despite the fact that most of these rains were reasonably slow and gentle in falling. There has been, it is interesting to note, a striking difference in the amount of erosion even in fields where the slope of the hill and the soil was practically the same.

Upon one Missouri farm it has been noticed that a field that was plowed last fall and plowed deep was washed scarcely at all, while an adjoining field on the same slope that had been plowed late this spring and plowed to a lesser depth was badly gullied and cut up by small ditches. When the owner of this farm walked over the two fields in April, before the rains started, he noticed that the soil in the field that had been plowed deep last fall was soft and as fine as ashes, so that he sank almost to his shoe tops as he walked across it. The other field was reasonably well packed and comparatively firm.

The owner's belief is that the reason the field that was plowed deep washed so little was because the water falling upon it sank immediately into the ground and soaking slowly away found little resistance, while the water falling on the firm shallow lower soil immediately ran off on the surface and wore a channel through the resisting soil.

If the same observation has been made by other readers of The Farmer and Stockman, we will be very glad indeed if they will report their observation, as the washing of soils is an extremely important item. If deep plowing in the fall will offset soil washing it is a matter of no small importance.—Farmer and Stockman.

Physician Says Average Life Could be 65 Years.

San Francisco, Cal., June 23.—The average thread of life—snapped at 42—might be lengthened to 65 years if the American people so wished and would obey a hypothetical set of rules and regulations, Dr. Victor C. Vaughan of Ann Harbor, Mich., retiring president of the American Medical Association, said today in a public meeting.

"Since 1880," he said, "the average of longevity in this country has been increased more than 10 years. In the last 10 years life had been lengthened by more than four years. "If every city would install rules and regulations for health, such, for instance, as William C. Gorgas, surgeon general of the army, might give, the lives of our children could be brought up to an average of 65 years."

Military Exhaustion.

Estimates as to the losses and surviving fighting forces of the European nations cannot be anything more than estimates, but some of those being made are, at any rate, interesting.

From figures taken from the 1910 census it is estimated that Germany had 14,073,526 males between the ages of 14 and 45 last December. Annual rejections by the military inspection boards indicate a reduction of this total to 13,088,383. Disability by accident and disease cut it down to 9,530,512. Casualties in the war to that time are estimated to have been a million and a half, reducing the total to 8,000,000. Requirements for railroad, telegraph, postal and navy yard service and in the manufacturing of munitions of war and other necessary products are estimated to be at least two million men, bringing the total down to 6,000,000. For the last five months it is estimated the German losses have averaged 300,000 per month, which leaves a total of only 4,500,000 men now available. Of this number it is estimated 3,000,000 are now on the two battle fronts, so only 1,500,000 are left in reserve for emergency requirements.

This estimate may not be correct, but if it is any where near correct it seems to indicate that a few more months of the war will make "military exhaustion" a real menace for Germany. And the situation in Austria-Hungary is declared to be even more acute.—Joplin Globe.

Find Two Miners Dead.

Joplin, Mo., June 24.—Rescue workers, after 14 days of toiling dug their way into the "face" of the Longacre-Chapman mine at Neck City late this afternoon and on top of a pile of timbers found the bodies of Daniel Hardendorf and Reed Taylor. The two men apparently had been dead several days.

Last Thursday morning, when the rescue crew tapped on an air-line pipe running through the drift they reported that they received a response from the two men.

Four other men, who were at work in the mine when the cave-in occurred, were rescued alive five days later.
